Fly Fishing Adventures

Reflection. Present moments. Every season brings new stories.
Patagonia Rivers with SET

Long Tall Sally

by Lori-Ann Murphy

Every year, I'm amazed by how the river brings people back to themselves. Watching a woman step into the water — maybe nervous, maybe curious — and then see her cast open up like wings... that's the moment I live for. It's never just about the fish. It's about remembering who you are when you're outside, in the moment, fully alive.

That first cast isn't just about fishing. It's about coming home to yourself.

Fly fishing has this way of resetting your soul — slowing you down, tuning you in, and bringing you right back into rhythm with the river. Every cast, every drift, every rise is a reminder: you belong out here.

This season, I'm inviting you to get your line in the water by joining us on an amazing Reel Women Fly Fishing Adventure.

Where will your next cast take you?

Montana's wide skies? Belize's turquoise flats? Or Patagonia's wild, glacial rivers?

Wherever you go — make it somewhere your heart can breathe again.

Let's keep our nets full.

Thank you! And tight lines gal pals.
