Celebrating National Women's Fly Fishing Day!

Long Tall Sally

by Lori-Ann Murphy

Every woman who picks up a fly rod has a story worth telling. Whether it's a tale of a first catch or the journey picking up a flyrod for the first time or maybe so many times now or the natural world itself has become one of your closest allies - these stories are powerful and inspiring.

National Women's Fly Fishing Day is a perfect opportunity to reflect on how far we've come and to recommit to supporting each other's growth and success.

I mean look at the joy that has been created! Thank you for being you. Thank you for being one pedal of a giant flower for women seeking something more with their fishing. Thank you for being guides, instructors, speakers, CFR helpers, badass anglers and fish bums.

Wanting outcomes. Letting go of outcomes.

Get lost. Find your way.

Chase fun. Create fun.

Pass it on!

As we celebrate National Women's Fly Fishing Day, we look forward to a future where more women find their place in the world fly fishing. We envision a thriving community where diversity is celebrated, where women support each other, and where every cast is a step towards greater inclusion and recognition.

"Cast to your dreams!"

We have been teaching Reel Women Fly Fishing Schools since 1998! It's one of our all-time favorite things to do...share our heart and soul for the love of rivers!

"I strongly encourage you to not only attend, but fully immerse yourself into what fly fishing has in store for you. This intensive program, along with the patient and helpful instructors helped to form the foundation and paved the way for me to chase my dream of becoming a full-time guide. Each of us has our own path, and it begins when you are willing to step out of your comfort zone. Grab hold of the knowledge, skills, and confidence that Reel Women Guide School offers, and go chase your dream. There is no better place to start!"
