

Life on the Fly By Lori-Ann Murphy

Tailout. The title of this recent painting by Rachel Finn.

As an artist, Rachel likes to go deep into her study of a subject. As a fly fishing guide and fly angler, she takes upon the layers of understanding a piece of water with the same depth. Not long ago she told me she has become intrigued with "tailouts" - that piece of water that you jump in to fish, excited to just feel a great swing from a long belly of flyline directing a specially crafted fly that then rips through the water in front of a trout or anadromous fish's face. We find the perfect swing - which slows the fly while you hold your breath. A relaxed hand waits and watches. A lifetime could be spent learning about a "tailout" at all Winding down 2020 I would say most of us are whopped. Bursts of energy are collected and savored for me and I am paying attention to what fuels my fire. Escaping into a piece of water and allowing myself to feel all those micro moments is one of those things. Luckily there are plenty of ways to get lost on rivertime. We are excited to share with you another great river to explore with your fly rod! The Green River in Wyoming has been able to stay the kind of fishery that demands 100% of your skill or luck. The fish are wild and gorgeous. The rewards from this river truly do last a lifetime. Please join us for our very first Green River Trip with RWFFA!

I'm sure many of you will agree that our fly fishing keeps giving back. What a wonderful thing to share! Really, I bet you know someone who would just love to join in one of our RWFFA Schools or Trips. So here is a giant nudge to visit our website and let's get that gift certificate going. And on that note, we are including our fundraiser for my Belizean friends, Chef's for Hire. Again, this is a first for me, but if we can get everyone to donate just a little, that little becomes huge. And a giant help during a time like no other. Thank you! So shop til you drop here at RWFFA and keep the love alive. Happy holiday time everyone! Cast to your dreams. L-A summer offers. We see many fish in the 16” to 20” range rising on these beautiful sunny days. Rainbows and Browns over 20” are fairly common and a properly drifted dry fly over these aggressive fighters will raise your rod to the proper landing position in a hurry!

Meet us in Pinedale, Wyoming late afternoon on July 19th and enjoy dinner with the group. We'll have the scoop on the latest fishing reports and plan accordingly! There are quite a few good floats and our guides from Two Rivers will help us select the best sections for the next three days. We'll float and enjoy amazing fishing, Moose, birds and other wildlife. July days on the Green River in Wyoming sell out fast and many anglers were turned away last year. We're grateful to have these amazing days with fabulous guides. If you are interested book early —we know this will go fast! $1,999 double occupancy or $2,299 single occupancy.

Chef's for Hire - Meet four sisters! Delsia, Norma-Jean, Helen and Betty Anne have asked me to help them raise money to stay in business during this very tough time for our community. These sisters represent a larger Sisterhood - a community that goes beyond borders. They are amazing cooks and so many of our angling guests have met them on our salt water trips. They are also my friends and I feel it's time to lend a hand.

Families here need our help to get through the Covid pandemic. With no hope for employment, income or government support the situation is becoming desperate for many. We are reaching out to our broader community for donations to help Chef's for Hire staff make it through this crisis.

As a company and as individuals, we are doing all that we are able to support and help our

We want to do more to help and are reaching out to our guests who have traveled with us and experienced the amazing warmth and hospitality of our local fishing community. Any small donation is hugely appreciated and will help to keep the lights on in a home and put much needed food on the table.

For any donations please be sure to include your name so that we can let our sister Chef's staff and their families know of your generous support. With great thanks and humility to all of you who have shared yummy spoonfuls from fabulous meals with Chef's for Hire. And to those that just want to help.

May you cast wide and far for all goodness to return to you.
