Patagonia is Calling

Long Tall Sally by Lori-Ann Murphy

Hello Friends,

Spring is starting to stir the fishing world, and I wanted to share a few updates and opportunities with our Reel Women Fly Fishing Adventures community.

Patagonia – One Last Spot \(April 4\)

A last-minute opening has just come available for our Argentina trip beginning April 4, and I wanted to share it with you first.

We'll be fishing the beautiful Chimehuin River, drifting classic Patagonia water for big rainbow and brown trout surrounded by endless skies and remarkable scenery.

It's one of my favorite places in the world to fish — and we have a wonderful group of women already joining this adventure.

This remaining spot is available at the current rate before SET's April 1 price adjustment.

If Patagonia has been on your list, this could be the moment.

Yellowstone Women's Trip – Late Summer

Our Women's Yellowstone trip continues to be one of the most joyful weeks of the year.

Beautiful water, incredible dry fly fishing, and a group of women who come together to fish, laugh, learn, and share the experience.

If you've ever wanted to fish Yellowstone with a supportive group of women, I'd love to have you join us.

Belize – Flats Fishing - All Year!

And of course, fishing in Belize is heating up as spring approaches.

Permit, bonefish, and tarpon are all part of the game on the flats this time of year. If you're thinking about a tropical fishing escape, let me know and we can find the right dates.

Thank you for being part of the RWFFA community. It's always such a joy to fish and travel together.

"Cast to your dreams!"
