Thirty years on the water ~ Reeling it in!

Howdy RWFFA Friends,

That photo above? That's Lynn Decker and me this morning on our RWFFA 10th Annual Women's Permit Quest — sun up, rods rigged, full optimism engaged.

Lynn fishes with a style I absolutely love. She will stand on the bow all day for a single clean permit or tarpon shot. One shot. No complaints. No drama. If the fish wins? She's already planning tomorrow.

And yes — she has a literal bucket list spreadsheet mapping out her fishing trips for the next ten years. Tabs. Columns. Vision.

We started fishing together almost 30 years ago. That kind of friendship gets built on tides, long boat rides, missed fish, landed fish, and the quiet understanding that the pursuit is the point. You start to know how your friend scans water. How she breathes before the cast. When she needs silence. When she needs a laugh.

As Valentine's Day approaches, I've been thinking about "fishing love" stories like this one. Maybe there's someone in your life you'd love to build more mornings like this with.

And maybe... it's you.

See you on the flats,
Lori-Ann
