Life on the Fly By Lori-Ann Murphy

Flat calm conditions with a westerly wind here on Ambergris Caye, Belize. It's been a sleepy town the last several months. Familiar island sounds from fishing boats and golf carts have now returned reminding us that we have adapted to working together. Finding our way in a new chapter of island life, welcoming back our guests. It's a monumental moment, it truly is.

Our 4th Annual RWFFA Women's Permit Quest begins this week and we have arrivals starting today! I'll be documenting much of this trip - hopefully helping those of you interested in the process of first time or return travel to Belize. In the meantime please see our updated website with a ton of information.

Then, April Vokey will be showcasing this story later in the month. Naturally this is unscripted, so as we say here in Belize, "see what happens." I'm super excited to share this beach and fish with some very adventurous passionate women fly fishers this week. I guess with these ingredients it has to be good! L-A

Back to Basics

Learn in two days what could take years to discover on your own! Our goal is to introduce you to what you will encounter in the world of fly fishing. We stress confidence in the outdoors and using your power of observation to make smart outdoor decisions based on the world around you. You will learn from accomplished casting instructors the basics of a good cast as well as advanced casting techniques. We teach knots, equipment, entomology, how to read water and think like a fish!

Our objective is to make you an independent angler by teaching you the basics and build from there -or help you to get rid of bad habits. This school is great for beginners and experienced anglers. Learn more on our website!

Tarpon Quest May 15-22, 2021

Stable conditions and a sea full of poons! Our resident tarpon live around Ambergris Caye all year, but then in May the migratory tarpon come in and stay until about mid October. It's seems like all the tarpon get excited with a full house. A great time to up your chances for landing this magnificent creature. This is the pinnacle for many fly anglers and a great time to make it happen.

Resident Tarpon range from 20-60 lbs and the migratory tarpon usually average up to 120 lbs but we've seen some larger fish come through. These 'big girls' are an amazing pursuit and something folks plan their travel around each year. We're excited to host a ladies event in Belize; it will be a fun time showing the world how the ladies can land the big ones. Of course Permit, Bonefish and more also await! $3,295 Single Occupancy or $2,999 Double Occupancy
