Fly Fishing Adventures

Life on the Fly By Lori-Ann Murphy

Calvin: Look at all the stars! The universe just goes out forever and ever!

Hobbes: It kind of makes you wonder why man considers himself such a big screaming deal.

Welcome to the Dog Days of Summer - and finding places to be wild. I'm on Ambergris Caye in Belize where island life has slowed down to a weak pulse. We miss our visitors but it is also a time where we are really appreciating the beauty this small place on the planet offers.

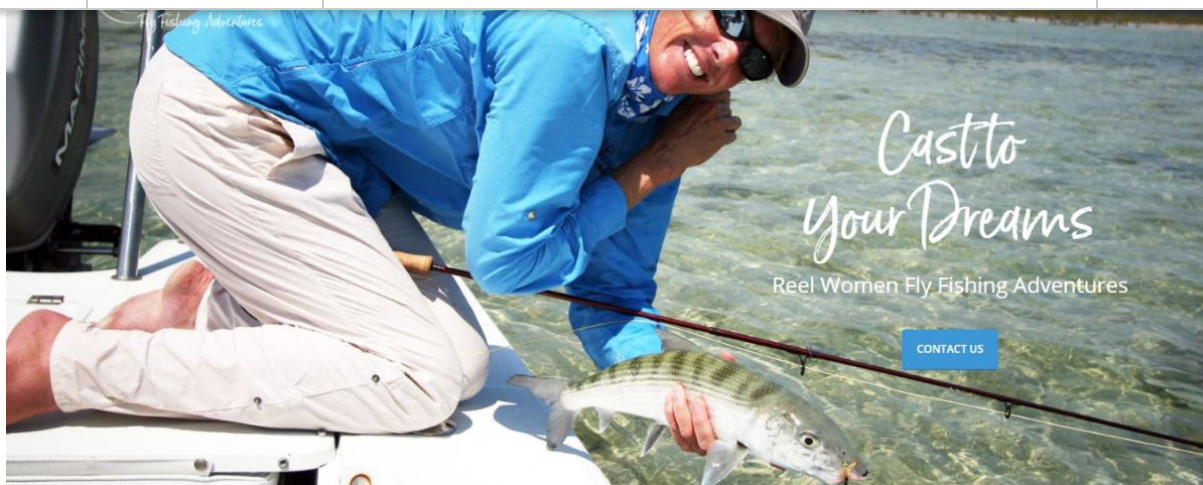

Today I will share with you my morning view. An explosion erupts from our front door every morning as Panga absolutely loves our morning walks on the beach. We had a super strong rain last night so the mosquitos are in their happy place. I seriously don't know why God made mosquitos. Maybe for the dragonflies? In any case, it was calm out there this morning. A slight westerly wind wanting to change back to our home east wind - you could feel the slight struggle as the breeze shifted. It was at this second I saw a school of permit come close and then got sideways and split like flying saucers in the sea. All the herons were out - a big tropical wave is on its way.

I contemplate that there must be a formula for when certain birds are about - the fish will show themselves "x." And if I knew that formula, that would make me the best fishing guide in the world. I think that will require another lifetime but in the meantime, I know the herons like the pre-front conditions on the beach side. I tried to take a few photos with my i phone of a little blue heron, but it looks ridiculous. I did join the SanBirdranos - our little birding community here in San Pedro. I'm the armchair member - I don't have an ebird account yet, but I do enjoy knowing my backyard birds . And I have a big backyard.

So as our waters reach each other, let's plan for some fun fly fishing. Let the bigness take over your world. Knowing something special is planned just makes a person happy. L-A

Reel Women Guide School

July 3-9, 2021 Ennis, Montana

July 24-30, 2021 SOLD OUT!

$2995

At the Guide School we spent, in- depth hours in the world of bugs, knots and boat management which was beyond enlightening. After fishing in the mornings we'd switch places with the guides and row them while they talked us through the drill. The school taught me so much about reading water, where fish hang and river safety -it truly launched my fly fishing story!

Had I not signed on for the Reel Women Guide School I'm not certain my life would have taken the path it did. A seed was planted which has bloomed and grown into the best part of my life - helping women fighting a life threatening disease, experience the 'letting go' of fly fishing.

—Peg Miskin, Casting for Recovery

In 2004 I attended the Reel Women Guide School. I had developed a true passion for fly fishing and wanted, more than anything to pursue guiding as a full-time endeavor. The class was everything I could have imagined. The interaction with the other students and the knowledgeable instructors made for a perfect combination. I walked away with a new found confidence. Using the knowledge gained, I purchased a ClackaCraft drift boat, hung out my Southern Brookies shingle and I've been in business ever since I give it my highest commendation and full endorsement.

— Susan Thrasher, Southern Brookies
